Objectives and aims

The twenty-second International Tunisia Chemistry Conference - TCC 2024 is an international congress that provides an open forum for academic researchers and industrial professionals to present their original work and projects, as well as exchange ideas and technological experiences. The twenty-second edition of TCC 2024 aims to intensify and promote cooperation between academia, research institutions, and relevant industries. It is also hoped that the conference will foster innovation and creativity among researchers working in sustainable processes and make significant contributions to the industries of the future. TCC 2024 conference focuses specially on :

Networking and Collaboration:

Scientific conferences provide an excellent platform for young researchers to connect with their peers, established scientists, and industry professionals. These connections can lead to fruitful collaborations, idea exchange, and even potential job opportunities.

Presentation Opportunities:

Conferences offer young scientists the chance to present their research globally. Presenting their work allows them to receive feedback, gain confidence, and refine their communication skills.

Soft Skills Development:

Beyond technical knowledge, conferences help develop essential soft skills such as communication, teamwork, and time management. These skills are vital for success in any career, including scientific research.

International Experience:

Attending international conferences exposes young researchers to diverse perspectives, cutting-edge research, and different scientific cultures. It broadens their horizons and encourages them to think beyond their local context.
